Do you know ...

Phenomenon of dye-sublimation printing was invented in America. This type of printing currently is applied in the whole world.

Sublimation print is one of the thermal transfer technology and based on occurrence of sublimation, i.e. transition from the gaseous phase to solid phase.

Pigments in dye-sublimation ink are transferred onto the sublimation paper in the form of solid state. Sublimation print can be performed on group of polymers which, in contact with high temperature "relax" their structure and as a result the micro pores open up. In the thermal press the pattern printed on sublimation paper converts from the solid phase to gas phase and then permeates into micro pores of polymer where they turn into solid phase and after cooling it becomes permanent.
